SKIN NTDs IN SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA

affected population

Individuals, families and communities affected by skin NTDs must be actively involved in actions taken to address these diseases, paying special attention to the most vulnerable groups.

civil society

Civil society must be organised and coordinate actions with other public and private stakeholders, giving prominence to the affected population.

knowledge

Knowledge must be generated and shared among stakeholders in order to improve prevention, diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation for people affected by skin NTDs and to better understand the mechanisms that generate health inequalities.

governments

Governments must assume their obligations regarding actions in the area of skin NTDs and the universal enjoyment of the Human Right to Health and women’s rights, as well as striving to do away with the discrimination arising from these diseases.

private sector

The private sector needs to mobilise resources for actions aimed at tackling skin NTDs related to the fulfilment of the Human Right to Health.

partnerships

Institutions and organisations involved in tackling skin NTDs need to develop partnerships and coordinated actions in order to help improve the lives of people affected or potentially affected.

We strengthen their capacities.

We focus on the affected population.

We increase understanding as regards the lived experience of the affected population.

We promote education within civil society in the Global North.

We strengthen their capacities.

We attract public and private donors.

We promote social entrepreneurship actions.

We advocate for gender mainstreaming.

We promote socially responsible investments.

We attract private sector donors.

We promote multi-stakeholder communications actions.

We foster partnerships with the media.

We promote coordinated action between stakeholders.

We coordinate the mobilisation of financial and non-financial resources.

We promote the generation of knowledge among stakeholders involved.

We disseminate the knowledge we have acquired.

We contribute to training and knowledge sharing.

We generate our own knowledge based on our experiences.

We seek to influence the global health agenda.

Institutions and organisations involved in tackling skin NTDs need to develop partnerships and coordinated actions in order to help improve the lives of people affected or potentially affected.

We disseminate the capabilities of National Health Programmes.

We advocate for gender mainstreaming.

We ensure there is a greater results-based focus.

We attract public and private donors.

We bring our civil society organisations on board.

We promote education actions by civil society in the Global North.

We strengthen their capacities.

We promote their economic development.

We increase understanding as regards the lived experience of the affected population.

We promote education within civil society in the Global Health.

We promote multi-stakeholder communications actions.

We foster partnerships with the media.

We promote socially responsible investments.

We attract private sector donors.

We promote multi-stakeholder communications actions.

We promote the generation of knowledge among the stakeholders involved.

We contribute to training and knowledge sharing.

We generate our own knowledge based on our experiences.

We seek to influence the global health agenda.